Bon Jovi to be sued over bad buggy driving

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cuniffe@mk-news.co.uk

ROCK band Bon Jovi is being sued by a woman allegedly run over by their golf buggy at the National Bowl.

Sally Allen, a security supervisor on the 2006 Have a Nice Day tour, is claiming £250,000 from Jon Bon Jovi and his band-mates after one of their employees allegedly ran her over on purpose.

Kevin McDonnell, escort to the New Jersey-based rockers, is said to have asked 'do you know who I am?' before mowing her down and fracturing her leg in the process.

Ms Allen is suing the four band members, whose hits include Crush, Something for the Pain, Blood on Blood and Livin' on a Prayer.

As well as her leg injury she claims the incident caused her to have a prolapsed vagina and suffer from depression.

She has not worked since the concert and believes she will not work again for the foreseeable future, therefore losing out on £2,500 wages each month.

A writ filed at Oxford County Court, adds 'due to her injury

Jon Bon Jovi on stage at the National Bowl in MK

the claimant's husband has left her.

It says that at 4pm on Sunday, June 11 2006 a fire broke out in the VIP area and Ms Allen helped cordon it off.

Mr McDonnell is alleged to have driven up to the cordon in a golf buggy at 4.50pm with the intention of getting backstage to see the band.

Ms Allen stopped him, saying there was an emergency situation, and told him to take a detour.

He is said to have sworn repeatedly and told her: "I don't care about your emergency situation. I have got an emergency situation. Get out of my way."

The writ claims he went on to say: "Get out of my way. Do you know who I am? You can't stop me", before driving the buggy at her and over her right leg.

It states that Bon Jovi 'failed to exercise proper control over Kevin McDonnell and failed to ensure that he was trained so as to prevent him from inflicting violence'.

Ms Allen was prevented from going to the police at the time because Mr McDonnell had left the country before he could be arrested.

A court spokesman confirmed the writ has just been issued so the case will not be heard until next year.

Members of the police search and recovery team head to the scene where the body was found in the canal

Man's body found floating in canal

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A BODY was found floating in the Grand Union Canal on Monday.

A member of the public who was passing on a canal boat, spotted the body of a male, fully clothed, floating in the water near bridge 98, at Stoke Road, Water Eaton.

They called the police at about 10.14am and by early afternoon police divers had entered the water to recover the body.

The canal was cordoned off from bridges 97 to 99 for most of the day.

Police said that the man is white and believed to be in his forties.

Detective Chief Inspector Ray

Summers said: "We would like to hear from anyone who was in the area late yesterday evening or this morning who may have seen the man near the canal."

"He is white and was wearing blue jeans, white trainers, a black jumper and a blue or black bomber style jacket."

"I would like to stress that at this stage we are treating the death as unexplained."

A post-mortem will be carried out within the next 48 hours to determine the cause of death.

■ Anyone with information which might help the investigation can contact CID at Milton Keynes police station on 08458 505505.

Council's post offices decision set to go to scrutiny committee

THE council's choice not to save city Post Offices is to be called-in to scrutiny by rural residents.

Milton Keynes Council's cabinet decided last week that it would not intervene to save four threatened branches as it is not 'financially viable'.

This was despite the efforts of several parish councils which promised funding and support for their local Post Offices.

Now MK NEWS understands that residents in Little Brickhill and Weston Underwood have signed a form to call the decision on their village branches back to the council's scrutiny panel.

This cross-party committee will hear fresh evidence before deciding whether to ask the cabinet to review its decision.

David Hopkins, councillor for Little Brickhill, said 20 residents have signed the form needed to have the decision scrutinised.

He said the decision was 'flawed' as the figures provided by Post Office Ltd were 'questionable'.

"The information provided to the cabinet was inaccurate and there are a number of assumptions we want to challenge," he said.

He added that the heart of the community will be lost with the permanent closure of the branch and village shop, which shut its doors on Thursday, October 18 ahead of the council's decision.

Mark Covington, whose family have run Weston Underwood Post Office for more than 100 years, said they had more than enough residents willing to sign the form.

"We could have had twice as many, the support hasn't dwindled," he said.

"I, like many others, was very disappointed and annoyed that the course of action taken at the meeting was basically to do nothing else," he added.

"The rural communities worked hard to show commitment and support for investigating the funding study."

"I feel the cabinet has slammed the door on work in progress."

Peter Geary, councillor for Weston Underwood, said not investigating the scheme further runs contrary to the recently adopted rural strategy, which prioritises access to services including Post Offices.

Councillors were warned in September that intervention to save branches would be expensive to taxpayers and may only delay the 'inevitable', as the local authority is only allowed to help support the branches for three years.

Last week, cabinet member Cllr Vanessa McPake said: "Postmasters have offered to take a cut in pay and parish councils have offered to raise their precepts, but it is just not financially viable for the council."

"I said last month that this is a head versus heart decision."

"My heart says yes, as I want to save you all, but I have to think of the bigger picture."

"This is just not in the best interest of Milton Keynes taxpayers."

A total of six branches are closing across the city, including Little Brickhill, Weston Underwood, Conniburrow, Fishermead, Water Eaton and Fenny Stratford.

Fears over centre listing application

Grade II* status could mean no change to shops

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THE future of the city centre is at stake as the commercial and public sectors clash over an application to make thecentre:mk a listed building.

English Heritage has recommended that Hermes and Prupim's building be Grade II* listed in an unprecedented move which would see one kilometre of the town centre protected from demolition.

The application to the Department for Media Culture and Sport (DMCS) has been made by a conservation body, the Twentieth Century Society.

Although two applications have failed in the past, the listing would put it in the top five per cent of buildings in the country, judged to be of 'more than local interest'.

It would also prevent changes to shop fronts and shop floors, create fixed grid roads and place height restrictions on surrounding building developments.

Jon Weymouth, development director of thecentre:mk said: "The centre should be allowed to grow and shopping buildings have to change with the times."

"The last thing we want to do is to lock it in a straight jacket."

"We feel the building is adequately protected by the current guidelines."

He said that if the application is granted then retailers would see a 'significant disadvantage' when deciding whether to open a new store in the city centre.

If listed, the building, which turns 30-years-old next year, would join other prestigious Grade II* listed structures including the

Robert Goodman and John Weymouth outside thecentre:mk

Ritz London, Broadcasting House and the Elephant House at London Zoo.

Since 1998 the building has been protected by a management agreement between owners English Heritage and Milton Keynes Council.

But the council has decided to support the application.

A spokesman said: "Milton Keynes Council is of the opinion that the shopping centre building is of special architectural interest and, when considered against English Heritage's published selection criteria, is worthy of designation."

Centre director, Robert Goodman, is confident it will be turned down.

He said: "If we're listed then they are listing the city centre."

"That would have huge implications for existing and new developments."

"If this building is listed then the development framework will be blown out of the water."

"What is likely to happen is any new investment will go out to the edges and the motorway."

A spokesman from the House of Fraser said: "As a young, modern city, Milton Keynes is always changing and we do not believe now is the time to restrict that change."

"Making CMK a 20th century listed building would be detrimental to the growth of the town centre."

He added that further developments of the store in Milton Keynes would be made 'extremely difficult'.

A spokesman from the John Lewis Partnership said: "We believe the listing of such a key regional shopping destination will jeopardise the sustainable future growth of Milton Keynes which has been identified as one of the Governments key growth areas."

"The listing would also send the wrong signal to investors, developers and retailers alike who are contemplating future investment in Milton Keynes."

thecentre:mk made its final representation to the DMCS on Monday and the management will meet with city MPs Phyllis Starkey and Mark Lancaster this week.

A decision is expected before Christmas.

Tributes paid to boy found shot dead at hunt kennels

TRIBUTES have been paid to a former Milton Keynes schoolboy after he was found shot dead.

Jack Burgess, 16, died from a single gunshot wound last Monday afternoon, at the kennels belonging to the Grafton Hunt, in Paulerspury, just north of Milton Keynes.

Police were called to the scene at 2.45pm, but a spokesman said they are not treating the death as suspicious.

The former Kingsbrook College student was working at the kennels and training to become a professional huntsman with the Master of Foxhounds Association.

Jack's family, including dad Andrew, 50, and younger siblings, Ross and Danielle, lead a tribute at the opening meet of the Grafton Hunt on Saturday.

The past week has seen a flood of tributes posted on Internet forums, by residents from across Milton Keynes who knew Jack.

One tribute left on the MK NEWS

Hunt trainee: Jack Burgess

website, from Alex Holmes, said: "I think the best way to describe Jack was as someone who was infectious cheeky, always had some sort of food in his pocket to share, and had the ability to make you smile at any given moment."

"He was a lovely lad who I was proud to have known and worked with and who I'm sure will be sorely missed by his friends and all at Kingsbrook."

Nic wrote: "I knew you for five years at skl, RIP jack."

"I'll neva 4get that big cheeky grin of urs and ur wild and funny personality!"

Other schoolfriends posted messages on an online social networking forum set up in memory of Jack.

One wrote: "Can't believe I won't see you walking in the village any more. A pair of wellies and a cheeky smile. My thoughts and prayers go to your mum, dad, Ross and Danni."

"So sad."

Another said: "I can't believe your gone, you always hear about things on the news like this, but you never expect it to happen to one of your mates."

"Your sadly missed by all of us."

Northamptonshire Police said a report was being prepared for the coroner who will open an inquest.

Seek and ye shall find

SIR - With reference to your story 'Treasure hunters set to coin it with Roman haul' (MK NEWS, last week).

It gives the silent majority of honest, decent, metal detectorists something to be proud of.

Let there be light

SIR - Diwali or Deepavali is a significant festival among Hinduism, Sikhism and Jainism and is widely celebrated in Britain by these communities this week.

There are several interpretations given to the celebration.

Today Hindus, Jains and Sikhs across the world celebrate as the 'Festival of Light'.

The lights or lamps signify victory of good over the evil (demon) within every human being.

There is another theory which suggests that Diwali has been originated as a harvest festival, the last harvest of the year before winter.

Goddess Lakshmi, the deity of wealth is thanked on this day and everyone prays for a prosperous year ahead.

Diwali is celebrated on the first day of the lunar Kartika month, which comes in the month of October or November.

The most spiritual meaning of Deepavali is the 'awareness of the inner light'. There is an assertion in Hindu philosophy that there is something beyond the physical body and mind which is pure, infinite and eternal called the 'Atman'.

Deepavali is the celebration of this inner light, in particular knowing of which removes all obstacles and dispels ignorance and awakening the individual to one's true nature.

Not a cat's chance

SIR - With reference to the '£1,000 operation cost to save short pet cat' (MK NEWS, October 29).

Why did this poor woman have to sign her much-loved cat over to the RSPCA?

Is that the only way the RSPCA would agree to pay the bill?

Surely the RSPCA is supposed to be about compassion?

What is compassionate about giving someone the choice of life for their animal only if they abandon it?

What sort of throwaway society does the RSPCA want to promote regarding animals?

This is exactly why we should all support the SHG's campaign (Self Help Group for Farmers, Pet Owners and Others experiencing difficulties with the RSPCA), for an animal NHS for the animals of pen-

Time for everyone to lobby for growth cash

SIR - There has recently been a lot of discussion on the future of Milton Keynes and particularly on transport, the grid system, city streets, grid road crossings and the expansion areas.

The release of the report from the Citizens' Advisory Group on Transport (CAGOT) that recognises the need for 'a considerable investment and expansion in both the quantity and quality of our public transport system' and the inexplicable withdrawal of the cabinet paper which recommended pedestrian crossings for the V4/H4 grid roads for example.

For the first time could one possibly believe that the council is making an all out effort to listen and involve the people of Milton Keynes in a decision making process.

Formal policy is in place for public transport routes that can be 'capable of being upgraded to mass transit characteristic'. However, there are indications the council is already abandoning this.

High quality buses in the short term may be sensible, but surely we need to look beyond this and focus on the best forms of mass transit public transport - light rail, trams or dial a ride for example?

But given that we are in a time of recession does any of this matter? Some will say no, but growth is going to happen sooner or later and we at least now have a window of opportunity to review the strategy. This is the time to push hard and address all the key building blocks on which the eventual growth will succeed or fail.

This is exactly the time for the leaders that have committed themselves to working for the interests of Milton Keynes to go to central Government with a common voice and lobby hard. And I include our MPs in this who need to demonstrate they can go beyond a few repetitive sound bites.

Having a clear vision to 2030 is important.

This will come out of the strategies debates such as the Transport Strategy Review that is currently going through the council.

The other part of this is a commitment to long term funding. We cannot plan a future city on this scale without a long-term commitment.

Gordon Brown has indicated that he will be spending his way out of the down turn. Surely there is a special case here for Milton Keynes?

Now is the time to act.

Cross over crossings

SIR - With regards to V4/H4 pedestrian crossings.

I am not impressed with the Liberal Democrat administration.

The debate has to be had and a poor housing market is not relevant.

Decisions for lights were made some time ago and in March the environment committee were subsequently rejected.

One should therefore contest the decision to withdraw that there may be no need for a debate at all.

The administration has much to answer for.

Book early for Diwali

SIR - May I through your pages simply congratulate the Milton Keynes Hindu Association on their Diwali celebration held at MK Theatre on Sunday night?

I am extremely proud to represent a city that enjoys such cultural diversity as Milton Keynes and believe that everyone can learn from the valuable lessons that Diwali teaches about unity and friendship.

The Milton Keynes Hindu Association continues to do excellent work in both representing and promoting the Hindu community and culture here in Milton Keynes and I was a delighted to have the opportunity to attend the vibrant Diwali celebrations myself.

To all those Milton Keynes residents who missed it, be sure to book your place early for next year.

To loos - long trek

SIR - It was interesting to read in MK NEWS (October 22) that Dr Phyllis Starkey MP is part of a committee concerned about the lack of loos in this country.

I belong to several older persons/pensioner groups in Milton Keynes which have been calling, for some time, for improved toilet facilities at Central Milton Keynes railway station.

Over the past few years we have approached Silverlink, then London Midland, to radically improve the provision of toilets at the station - one toilet on platform three is a ridiculous situation. We need facilities in the booking hall.

It has now been brought to our attention that Milton Keynes Council has been granted a substantial amount of funds which are to be used to re-vamp Station Square. However, despite approaches to the council they won't confirm that they are considering toilet provision.

Station Square is becoming a useful interchange for transport and this redevelopment would seem an ideal opportunity to offer good toilet facilities there, which would be of great benefit to the city.

I intend to write to both our members of Parliament to ask them to request that the council put this matter on the agenda for the near future and ask other residents to do the same.

Duty calls in

SIR - Cllr Crooks may not like it (MK NEWS Letters, Oct 29), but it is the duty of opposition councillors to 'call in' cabinet decisions for review and reconsideration, if they have not been made properly, with full supporting evidence for how and why tax payers' money is to be spent.

I am the chairman of the executive scrutiny panel, which is responsible for reviewing decisions that get 'called in' for this review process and if we conclude that the decision is unsound we can refer it back to cabinet.

The panel met on October 29 intending to review the decisions on how this money should best be spent. Both Labour and the Lib Dems asked for this review to be deferred and the scrutiny panel has yet to learn whether the projects put forward are the best possible way of spending tax payers' money. The panel also decided unanimously that another cabinet decision recommended by Cllr Crooks - to sell a farm near Olney - was not the best deal for the tax payer.

Residents and council tax payers should be very pleased that this scrutiny panel is working to improve the decisions made by the Lib Dem cabinet.

Cllr John Birt
Chairman, executive scrutiny
Middleton Conservatives

SIR - The Conservatives care very much about rising unemployment locally, despite the misleading letter from Cllr Sam Crooks last week.

Unemployment has, in general, been rising despite the regional and national trends, because the Lib Dems have been running an under-achieving educational service, failing to attract enough new jobs to the area, and reducing the attractiveness of MK to employers by building traffic lights all over the grid system.

When Mr Crooks presented his assortment of projects to cabinet, there was no explanation as to why these were the best available projects - just a bunch of ways to spend tax payers money.

Dance pals fight for Miss MK title

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

TWO girls from the city's most popular dance group will go head-to-head for the title of Miss Milton Keynes.

Sam Jenkins, 23, and Ally Irwin, 18, are both members of the Nemesis dance group which reached the final of Britain's Got Talent earlier this year.

Now the professional dancers have decided to compete against hundreds of other hopefuls in the regional heat of Miss England 2009.

"We've been doing a lot of rehearsals and gigs at nightclubs so I'm staying very fit and I'm in good shape," said Sam.

"I just want to compete, have fun with it and do the best I can."

Despite the fierce competitiveness that surrounds beauty pageants, the pair are adamant that there will be no bad feelings when the votes are announced.

"She's dark and I'm blonde so I can't say who's better looking - we're different," said Sam.

"Ally probably gets chatted up more than me, but she goes out more."

The competition is restricted to females aged 17 to 24 living in Milton Keynes and the Miss England website states: "We are looking for contestants who are not only photogenic and attractive in face and figure, but also have good communication skills, confidence and charm."

Ally, from Loughton, said: "We've been in front of the judges at Britain's Got Talent so I think our confidence and communication skills are good enough to win Miss Milton Keynes."

The winner will be invited to beauty functions and modelling shoots throughout the year, not to mention the national heat, which was won by Miss Derby in 2008.

Parking charges and council tax should be raised to pay for buses

A CITIZENS group says car parking and council tax should be increased to pay for better bus services.

The panel, brought together to discuss future transport in the city, also recommends preserving the grid roads.

The council says its ideas could have 'massive financial implications'.

The independent report by Milton Keynes Citizens' Advisory Group on Transport (MKCAGoT) was released last week.

Twenty-two randomly chosen people from all backgrounds spent eight months and over 1,000 hours speaking to residents, businesses, councillors and council staff.

The group commissioned the ICM Survey on transport, published in August, which revealed that 87 per cent of the city's citizens believe the grid roads work, 84 per cent don't wish to see the system tampered with and only ten per cent would be happy if it didn't exist.

It also calls for 'considerable investment and expansion' in the public transport system, including a 'massive increase in bus capacity' through an extra £5 million-a-year in subsidies.

It suggests the council give consideration to measures including raising car parking charges, council tax or introducing a congestion charge to fund these improvements.

Other suggestions include upgrading redways to give cyclists a safer route and to reducing speed limits from 70mph to 60mph on the grid roads.

Cllr Douglas McCall, cabinet member for transport, said the report is an in-depth and significant piece of work.

"Some of these ideas, such as improving redways, should be relatively uncomplicated, funding allowing," he said.

"However others, such as retaining and maintaining or upgrading the city's traditional grid road system, while at the same time improving bus services, have massive financial implications."

Theo Chalmers of Urban Eden, which aims to promote a sustainable extension of the original master plan for Milton Keynes, said the report is embarrassing for the council due to their policy on not expanding grid roads into the expansion areas.

"I don't know how they could have a congestion charge in a city with no congestion," he said. "The other problem is if you give money raised from additional tax to a private bus company like Arriva who is to say that they are going to spend it efficiently?"

The CAGoT findings are expected to go into the 'melting pot' at the council cabinet meeting of November 25, when the city's new transport plans are being recommended for adoption.

The robbers stormed into the One Stop Shop in Whitehorse Drive, Emerson Valley, and threatened staff with the weapons.

They forced one member to open the safe while the other was held in the corner by the man with the hammer.

The culprits stole the contents of the safe and both tills, totalling £1,050, before running out of the store.

Detective Constable Wayne Watson said: "This was a very frightening incident for the staff working in the store and they have been left badly shaken by it."

The incident occurred at 9.40pm on Wednesday (22/10).

Both men are white, 6ft, medium build, wearing black balaclavas.

■ NETWORK Rail signed an agreement with Milton Keynes Partnership, securing a site for the development of its new, state-of-the-art National Centre in Milton Keynes.

The company is planning to build the new centre on the site of the former National Hockey Stadium adjacent to the city's mainline railway station. It will provide office space for a number of Network Rail's key national functions that are presently based at various locations across the country.

John Lewis, chief executive of Milton Keynes Partnership said: "Network Rail's decision to commit to this major investment in Milton Keynes is a real boost to business confidence in the city."

The exact details of the scheme and schedule for the development will be finalised in spring 2009.

■ A BODY is found floating in the Grand Union Canal.

A member of the public who was passing on a canal boat, spotted the body of a male, fully clothed, floating in the water near bridge 98, at Stoke Road, Water Eaton.

They called the police at about 10.14am and by early afternoon police divers had entered the water to recover the body.

The canal was cordoned off from bridges 97 to 99 for most of the day.

Police said the man is white and believed to be in his 40s.

Ex-army nurse in need of extra care

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE

jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A FORMER army nurse is forced to wrap plastic bags round his legs because home carers do not have the time to attend to him.

Edwin Raymond Stevens, 73, of Cheltenham Gardens was a nurse with the Royal Army Medical Corps, serving all over the world in the 1950s.

But now the former medic, known as Ray, suffers from ulcers on his legs and walks with a stick.

He is forced to sit in his Bletchley home with his bandaged legs on plastic bags because the sores weep onto the floor.

He said in the years he worked as a nurse, doing two years' National Service and nine years' regular service, the quality of care would have been better.

"The carers I have are brilliant people," he said.

"They come twice a day, bring me meals, put me to bed.

"But they just don't get the time to bandage my legs. To do each leg takes an hour."

He says his legs keep him awake all night and he relies on a paper boy to go and get his food.

"I don't think I can make it until Christmas like this," he added.

A spokesman from Milton Keynes Council, which provides Mr Stevens' home care, said: "We cannot comment on any individual case, but the council and the agencies we work with will always review a resident's needs whenever we receive a complaint or we are made aware of an issue.

"In general terms, home carers are not qualified to carry out medical treatment."

Role-model youngsters

TWO city youngsters have been rewarded for being brilliant role models.

Nikki-Louise Delaney, 21, from London Road in Newport Pagnell won £1,000 for her dedication to the Ice Gems, cheerleaders to MK Lightning ice hockey team.

And £500 went to 16-year-old Daniel Pritchard from Beanhill, who was featured in MK NEWS in July, who cares for his terminally-ill mother and volunteers in the community.

The recognition came from the SkillsTrain Young People of the Year, or YoPEY, awards for Buckinghamshire.

Former national newspaper journalist Tony Gearing brought his YoPEY campaign to the whole of Bucks six months ago, going into schools and community groups to find young people who disproved the image of the younger generation as binge-drinking, drug-taking, violent hoodies.

He found many across the county and the very best went to a lavish awards ceremony at the Vere Suite of Wycombe Wanderers Football Club to see who had won.

Over 200 people including the chairmen and mayors of every major council in Bucks, who had helped judge the contest, heard the stories of the 14 finalists.

Daniel was presented with his award by MK Mayor Jan Lloyd who said: "We need to do more to recognize the good young people in our community."

"They give, and have given, so much to this country. We should do what we can to honour that debt and assist the Royal British Legion to continue its support. "Please give generously when you buy your poppy, and wear it with pride."

Pub landlord sails into trouble over car park

A PUB landlord has been hit with a bill of more than £6,000 after storing a number of unauthorised vehicles in his premises' car park.

Andrew Cushion of the Galleon Inn, Old Wolverton, was sentenced at Milton Keynes Magistrates Court on Friday after pleading guilty to three offences under the Licensing Act.

Cushion was required to keep his car parks clear of litter and ensure only his customers' or his own car were parked at the pub.

These conditions were put in place following concerns from residents when Cushion applied to have his opening hours extended in 2005.

Neighbours of the pub feared cars from pub customers would spill out on to the street.

Council officers told magistrates that following visits to the site between November 2007 and March 2008 a number of unauthorised vehicles were still being stored on site and did not belong to customers of the public house.

This was the second time the landlord has been fined thousands of pounds following a previous prosecution in 2006 for similar offences.

Chris Londy, principal licensing officer for Milton Keynes Council, said: "The council works proactively to ensure all businesses within Milton Keynes comply with their legal requirements under the Licensing Act and we will continue to take formal action against all those who fail to do so."

Cushion was fined a total of £3,200 for the three breaches and the council was awarded total costs of £2,966.32.

Dumped trailer full of business waste

A lorry load of trouble as owner is fined for large scale fly-tipping

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE

jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A BUSINESS owner whose waste was found dumped in Wolverton has been fined.

John Honhold, 44, of Bellwether, Fullers Slade was ordered to pay a total of £3,913 after an articulated lorry trailer containing waste from his vehicle repair business in Beachampton was found abandoned.

Used engine oil, car body panels, bumpers, wheels and tyres, cardboard boxes, rubble and general waste were found in the abandoned trailer on a Wolverton industrial estate in August 2007.

He was ordered to pay fines, court costs and a victim surcharge on October 30 at Aylesbury Magistrates' Court.

Honhold said the trailer in which the waste was dumped was owned by another man and that Honhold had carried out repair work on it. Under pressure from his business' landlord, Honhold had requested the other man remove the trailer.

Dumped used engine oil, car body panels, bumpers, wheels and tyres, cardboard boxes, rubble and general waste from John Honhold's vehicle repair company cost him almost £4,000

Honhold said he had no direct knowledge himself of who removed the trailer or when, but said he had commissioned others to load some of his business' waste into the trailer, with the trailer owner's consent. He admitted failing in his duty to check who would remove the trailer and the disposal of the waste inside.

The trailer was subsequently dumped on the road on an industrial estate in Wolverton.

The incident was initially investigated by officers from Milton Keynes Council, and subsequently by officers from Aylesbury Vale District Council and Buckinghamshire Council.

Cllr Martin Tett, chairman of the waste committee for Bucks County Council said: "This was a serious incident that could have led to a lot of pollution. The defendant showed gross disregard for what would happen to his business waste."

"Why should ordinary council tax payers and private landowners have to pick up the pieces and carry out remedial works after a dumping or pollution incident when it's relatively simple to make the required checks on the person or company removing your business' waste?"

No chance for family to say goodbye to teacher who caught 'hospital bug'

THE family of a popular school-teacher who died of cancer believe her life could have been prolonged if she hadn't contracted superbug clostridium difficile (c diff).

Former Lord Grey deputy head Linda Lennox died at Milton Keynes hospital on Sunday, April 20.

An inquest, held last Thursday, heard she had been diagnosed with ovarian cancer four years ago.

Mrs Lennox, 56, from Bental Close, Willen had undergone chemotherapy and surgery but the cancer recurred a year ago.

She had been in and out of hospital in the weeks leading to her death and contracted the infection.

Her family believe this made her miss an opportunity for cancer treatment.

Mrs Lennox was readmitted to hospital on Thursday, April 17 with a suspected bowel obstruction. She died three days later.

Dr E Thway, consultant pathologist, said the cancer had spread throughout her small and large intestines giving rise to the obstruction of her bowel.

This caused her death alongside ovarian cancer, the c diff infection and bronchial pneumonia.

Mrs Lennox was treated in the surgical assessment unit in the days before her death.

Deputy Coroner Tom Osborne was concerned that she was not transferred to the Intensive Care Unit (ITU) when she became seriously ill, despite worries raised by nursing staff that she needed 'high dependency care'.

He asked whether this was due to the fact she was infected with c diff, which was denied by the hospital.

Mr K Chin, consultant surgeon, said she was clinically assessed by ITU, but it was considered she would not benefit as the bowel obstruction needed to be rectified for her condition to improve, which proved impossible.

Mr Osborne said it was a 'matter of concern that Mrs Lennox was not nursed and looked after in the proper place', but was satisfied this did not contribute to her death. He gave a verdict of natural causes.

Mrs Lennox, who had two children, was born in Sunderland.

Her husband, James, is a retired engineer.

John Lennox, her son, said he believes contracting c diff made his mum miss the opportunity of receiving chemotherapy, which could have prolonged her life.

"She lost some dignity and we lost the chance to say goodbye," he said.

Mrs Lennox worked at Lord Grey School, in Bletchley, for nearly 18 years as a maths teacher and deputy head.

Jill Coughlan, headteacher at Lord Grey School said: "Linda Lennox continues to be a much missed member of the Lord Grey Community. Our thoughts are with her family at this difficult time."

MK Hospital was unavailable for comment.

Don't let 'oohs' turn into 'aghs'

GUY Fawkes' Night is a time when the 'oohs' admiring the displays can turn to the 'aghs' of agony.

That is why Milton Keynes Community Safety Partnership has launched Operation Rebound, urging people to think about the dangers of playing with fireworks and lighting bonfires.

In fact, they are suggesting people go to an organised display as opposed to having their own fire works party at home.

The annual Milton Keynes firework display at Campbell Park went off without problems on Sunday night, but many people around the city will be planning to hold their own displays in the coming days and at the weekend.

Fireworks cause hundreds of avoidable injuries every year. Across the country, 6,637 people were hurt and required hospital treatment between 2000 and 2005.

Most of these victims were aged under 20 and injured at private firework events or in the streets, rather than at organised displays.

Gillian Prager, Director of

Clinical Standards and Engagement at Milton Keynes PCT, said: "Fireworks and bonfires are fun, but can be very dangerous. We all know bonfires and fireworks have the potential to seriously injure or even kill. Please help us keep everyone safe over the bonfire period. We would urge everyone to attend professionally organised displays."

Journalist's trial put on hold until January

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THE trial of a journalist accused of helping a police officer to leak sensitive information has been delayed until January.

Sally Murrer, a part time journalist at Milton Keynes Citizen, was at Kingston Crown Court on Friday alongside Mark Kearney, the former Thames Valley Police officer who is charged with eight counts of wilful misconduct in a public office.

The preparatory hearing was scheduled so that lawyers acting on behalf of Ms Murrer could argue that Thames Valley Police breached her human rights by bugging her.

Addressing Judge Charles Tilling, the defence indicated that if the court rules against their argument then they would take the case to the Court of Appeal, which would delay the trial.

Judge Tilling adjourned the preparatory hearing until November 10 and said that the trial would be put back to January, to be heard by Judge Edward Southwell.

Ms Murrer, 49, from Kensworth, denies three counts of aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring Kearney to commit the offence.

Her defence team will argue that Thames Valley Police breached article 10 of the Human Rights Act when they bugged Mr Kearney's car and listened to his conversations with Ms Murrer.

Mr Kearney, 48, from Old Linslade, Heath and Reach, denies all eight charges.

He made the headlines last year over his involvement with Thames Valley Police's bugging of MP Sadiq Khan while on a visit to a friend and constituent being held on terror charges at Woodhill Prison.

Mr Kearney's 21-year-old son, Harry, has also denied aiding, abetting, counselling or procuring misconduct in a public office.

Derek Webb, a 53-year-old detective from Harpenden, Hertfordshire, has pleaded not guilty to five similar charges.

The trial could last up to seven weeks.

Readers help pay for shot cat's op

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A PENSIONER is celebrating the 'perfect birthday present' after kind donors funded an operation to save her shot cat.

Last week MK NEWS reported that Lukie the cat was shot with an air rifle at close range, leaving him with life-threatening injuries.

Lukie's owner, Margaret Roberts, from Chevril, Beanhill, could not afford the vet's bill and was saddened to sign Lukie over to the RSPCA, who paid for the operation.

But following the article, kind-hearted readers offered around £600 worth of donations to fund the treatment.

On Thursday the RSPCA called Margaret on her 64th birthday to tell her that Lukie was coming home.

"It was the perfect birthday present," Margaret said, "the RSPCA have been brilliant. They are inundated with cats and they said if I could find the rest of the money then I could bring Lukie home. I would like to thank MK NEWS and all those people who donated money."

The 18-month-old tabby is now recovering at home after vets at MK Veterinary Group Hospital in Perfect present: OAP Margaret Roberts heard the news that her shot cat was coming home on her birthday

Walnut Tree removed a pellet from his stomach.

One reader has also offered a £500 reward to find the culprit.

Sergeant Jason Kemp said: "A member of the public, who was understandably appalled by the injuries caused to Lukie, has put up a £500 reward for information which leads to the arrest and conviction of the person responsible for this sickening incident."

Anyone with information about this incident can call Sgt Kemp at Milton Keynes police station on 08458 505505.

Teacher chosen as Asian dance ambassador

A CITY dancer has been chosen to teach youngsters the secrets of South Asian dance.

Urja Desai Thakore is one of only six South Asian dance teachers to be selected as an associate artist of Akademi South Asian Dance UK.

The associate artists scheme is aimed at developing South Asian dance throughout the country.

Mira Kaushik, director of Akademi, said: "I look forward to working with Urja and the other associate artists as we begin to celebrate Akademi's 30th anniversary of promoting South Asian dance forms in the UK."

Urja, the founder and artistic director of Pagrav Dance in Milton Keynes, began her training at the age of six at the renowned Kadamb dance academy in Ahmedabad, India.

As a choreographer, teacher, student and performer of Kathak dance, she is involved in producing work using traditional forms to convey contemporary ideas in the modern world.

As ambassadors for Akademi the associate artists will use their experience and dance training to assist amateur and emerging dancers in exploring links between South Asian dance and contemporary dance forms.

Urja will serve as an associate artist until October 2009.

Information about the application process for the 2009-2010 associate artist scheme will appear in the new year on the Akademi website, www.akademi.co.uk

'Screws' and 'lags' get on their bikes

Woodhill inmates and staff cycle for 24 hours to raise cash for boy with brain damage

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

INMATES and staff at the city's jail have raised thousands of pounds to help a young boy with brain damage.

Twenty prisoners and ten dog section staff from Woodhill Prison completed a 24-hour cycle ride on Wednesday, October 29.

The inmates worked in pairs sharing ten exercise bikes in the jail's gym from 8am, when they are released from their cells, until lock-up at 7pm.

The staff then took over by cycling around the prison walls overnight until 7am on Thursday morning.

All this was in aid of 12-year-old Jake Leonard from Kilwinning Drive, Monkston, who suffered brain damage when he was born prematurely at 32 weeks and at eight-months-old was diagnosed with cerebral palsy.

He is wheelchair-bound and has limited movement in his right arm.

Jake's parents are trying to raise

Jake Leonard with two of the prison's dog team

£25,000 to pay for stem cell treatment for him in China.

Simon Butler, who works as a dog handler at Woodhill and organised the fundraiser, called Jake a 'fantastic' boy and his campaign a 'worthy cause'.

"My son used to go to primary school with Jake and when I had a leaflet put through my door about his campaign I thought 'what can we do at the prison to try and help?'" he said.

"While organising this I have spent a lot of time with him. He is a really intelligent boy trapped in a body that isn't working properly."

The jail's team cycled over 2,000 miles and raised more than £3,000.

Jake, who attends Oakgrove

School, came to the prison three times during the 24-hour stint to meet the prisoners and staff and to watch his own private dog display. A collection from inmates across the jail raised over £400.

Stuart Leonard, Jake's father, said he was 'utterly gob smacked' when he saw what lengths the inmates were going to and thanked the prison officers for getting through all the red tape to hold the event.

"There was a lot of effort and sore bums and sore legs," he said.

Jake's parents have currently managed to raise just under £10,000 towards their target.

Treasure find prompts archaeology event

IF you have unearthed a potential artefact in your garden why not come along to the second Milton Keynes Archaeology Day to discover its history?

The free event is being held from 10am until 4pm at the Central Library on Saturday, November 15 by archaeological officers from Milton Keynes Council.

An artefact expert will be on hand to identify any finds.

The event follows our story last week about metal detectorists Barrie Plasom and Dave Phillips, who discovered a hoard of Roman coins in a field north of Newport Pagnell in 2006.

Nick Crank, council archaeological officer, said: "The heritage of the area is rich and varied stretching from the last Ice Age through to the Second World War."

Guaranteed Profit for Small Business

BY SARAH BIDDLE

A Milton Keynes marketing firm is helping small business owners tackle the credit crunch head on – by literally guaranteeing the success of the work it does.

Immediate Return Marketing, who open an office in Central Milton Keynes this week, work with business owners to grow the profitability of their businesses through a unique combination of marketing services and coaching.

But what really sets them apart from other marketing companies in MK is their "Guaranteed Profit Guarantee"

Adam Naisbitt, the Company's founder explains:

"If you're going to buy a TV, you know if something goes wrong you can take it back to the store" he says, "but marketing is treated more like gambling – if it doesn't make a profit you're supposed to accept that and move on"

"What we do is give all of our clients a guarantee that the work we do will deliver the results they're looking for – and if they're not happy with what we do or the results they get, we don't expect them to pay for our service. It's a much fairer way to do business"

Adam, who started his first business when he was 13 and won Dragon's Den style investment aged just 18 – long before the TV series first graced our screens – is passionate about the approach his company takes.

"For too long business owners have had their fingers burnt by marketing that doesn't work. It's almost a cliché that there's 'no guarantees' in marketing. We think that's wrong"

"Marketing companies should be accountable for the advice they give, and that's something we've built into everything we do"

The company hopes with its move to Central Milton Keynes that it can make a real difference to local businesses and is offering new clients who contact the company in November a 30% discount on their first 6-months services.

"Whatever business someone is in, be it a hair salon, garage, estate agency, restaurant or almost anything else, if they'd like to be making more money they should speak to us, and they should do it this month."

"What we do could make a huge difference to their business, we're offering a limited time discount on our normal fees and everything we do is guaranteed. They really can't lose"

And with the Federation of Small Business estimating 280 small businesses going under every week, it could be a decision that's even more crucial now than ever before.

For more about the company, its services and its guarantee, visit www.guaranteedprofit.co.uk/nov or call MK 410510

Make it a model world!

by Graham from HobbyCraft

I got into scale modelling as a kid making Airfix kits and I've been hooked ever since.

Mention you're into 'models' and people either think you're a bit of a geek or enjoy looking at page three of a certain national newspaper!

Come to one of my club nights and you'll see just how wrong such pre-conceptions can be.

Fans of scale modelling come in all shapes and sizes, all ages and from all walks of life. No doubt it helps that club nights make it easy to make new friends.

Why do we enjoy it? For me, the lifelong attraction is affordable 'escapism'. The ability to be transported into another world, where I can be craftsman or war lord depending on whether I'm creating my next piece of diorama or playing Games Workshop.

The choice for modellers is fantastic these days. Whether you want to build a model railway, an accurate scale model of a ship or aircraft, create diorama for war games like Warhammer and Lord of the Rings, or pretend your Lewis Hamilton on the Scalextric, you can take your pick from thousands of kits and accessories.

For the best choice visit a specialist store like HobbyCraft, who have a truly inspiring range. You'll find more than 500 model kits from Tamiya, Revell, Airfix and Italeri, plus stocks of model railway items from Hornby and Woodland Scenics, slot cars by Scalextric and awesome new gaming ranges from Games Workshop, including Warhammer, Lord of the Rings and Flames of War.

There's an amazing array of modelling diorama too. From buildings and terrain to trees, bushes, grass mats and scatter materials as well as all those small essentials, like spare tyres!

You'll also find airbrushes and compressors from Badger, and minitools from Bohler, so there's some quite serious hardware on offer for those with bigger budgets too.

As well as these product lines, HobbyCraft is an Aladdin's cave of materials for the scale modeller, with huge assortments of paints, glues, brushes, tools, storage solutions, balsa wood, clay, magazines and books and much, much more. The only limit to creating your miniature world is your own imagination. There are even dolls houses for the girls!

We may live in an imperfect world, but there's no reason why you can't create your own perfect scaled down version.

Find HobbyCraft Milton Keynes at Central Retail Park. For directions visit www.hobbycraft.co.uk or call 0845 051 6544

“We are a needy city, Milton But there is a city which problems in terms of hate

TO outsiders, Milton Keynes is marketed as a new place, full of opportunities and those opportunities can supposedly be for all. Take, for example, the advertising campaigns boasting, on posters on the London Underground, that people are happier living and working in Milton Keynes than anywhere else.

According to Navrita Atwal, these marketing campaigns mask the real struggle of people battling with discrimination against their age, race, gender, religion and sexuality.

But despite the 'duty' to help these people, the Equality Council, based in Acorn House, is underfunded because of this glossy image of the city.

Ms Atwal said: "Certainly there is a huge funding crisis at the moment. We recently made a bid for £120,000 from the Equality and Human Rights Council. It was a good bid but we didn't get the money. So people are being deprived of services. There is very limited support in terms of money, resources are extremely limited as we only get funding from the Home Office."

"We are a needy city, Milton Keynes is portrayed as a city with the lowest unemployment, it's booming, it's seen as a booming city."

"But there is a city which people

The lifespan of Milton Keynes so far has directly coincided with 40 years of progression in civil rights. But, in 2008, at what stage is the movement to dismantle discrimination? Reporter JESSICA CUNNIFFE spoke to director of the Equality Council, Navrita Atwal, to find out how fairness is faring in the new city outside the area fail to see. Any problems in terms of hate crime and deprivation – they're just not seen.

"We are very good in terms of marketing ourselves, but as a result we lose out in terms of funding. There's a need for an organisation like ours. I feel we have a duty to the public if people have got problems around racism or any type of hate crime. But that duty does not come with money."

However, there is fresh hope for people being treated unequally, in the form of a new bill being considered in Parliament which hopes to end age discrimination while simplifying the law. Ms Atwal said: "There are nine major pieces of legislation, 100 statutory instruments relating to it and 2,500 pages of guidance on equality. But this new bill will declutter the law."

She believes this is essential, since discrimination can affect anyone.

"Anybody can fall a victim of discrimination, just walking along the road."

"I don't think people realise what their rights are. The new Equality Bill will create more awareness."

"There are also talks to include another basis for inequality to what has been called the six strands of equality (race, disability, gender, sexual orientation, age and religion): class."

"At the moment staff at Milton Keynes Equality Council feel they have got a grip on the racial problems in the city. It is something they can quantify through efficient ways of collecting data, such as racial abuse reporting centres. I don't know what the most prevalent form of discrimination is. The only thing I can say is, because we've got sound reporting mechanisms to record racial discrimination we know the figures and that last year racial abuse was down by 17.5 per cent. We've made a lot of progress but it needs to be made elsewhere. I think homosexuality is making great strides in terms of being accepted in society. But some people will tell you it's not enough."

"We've got a long way to go. It's taken 40 years to make certain changes but it never ends, it's a constant battle."

That leads me to ask what the goal of the Equality Council is. Can you make society totally equal?

"Whether we will ever have total equality or not is uncertain. You can work towards it. It's a dream. But in the meantime it's easier to work for a fairer society - that is what we are doing."

Can cook, will cook

CHEF Stacey Ward is the icing on the cake for MK College.

After losing her father at the age of just 13, Stacey admits she went off the rails, refusing to go to school and causing trouble when she did turn up.

It led to her joining the Fast Forward education programme for 14-16 year olds at the college, where she studied one day a week in Hotel and Catering.

Five years later she has transformed her life and last week was voted the 2008 Hotel and Catering Student of the Year.

Stacey recently completed a three year full time course and achieved an NVQ Level 3 Professional Chef Diploma, winning herself a job as a chef at the Hub's Living Room Restaurant. It's a great achievement and I can't thank MK College enough," said Stacey of West Bletchley, who received her award at a special ceremony at Woburn Abbey.

"Looking back I realise I was such a loudmouth causing trouble, but it was a difficult time for me after my dad died and I was upset and angry.

"Up until then I had been a grade A student, but the school just gave up on me. I ended up doing my GCSE work on my own at home and still managed to pass eight exams.

"The tutors at MK College were fantastic and gave me so much support and encouragement.

"I don't know where I'd be now without them."

Stacey's tutor Tony Oxley added: "She came to me at 14 and was a real handful – a noisy rebel. But after that flaky start she rose to the challenge and broke the mould.

"She became full of ambition and determination and became an inspiration to her peers. She is the cream of the crop and the icing on the cake."

The Hotel, Catering and Hospitality Awards 2008 were held at the prestigious Woburn Sculpture Gallery.

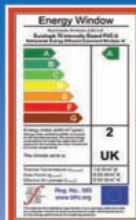

The Students' Student of the Year Award went to 19-year-old Luke Arnold, of Great Linford. Other winners include Collin Brandon – NVQ Level One Student of the Year, Mikhail Outte for Level 2, and Anthony Tilley for Level 3.

Tutor of the Year went to Tony Oxley and administrator Leanne Richardson won the staff award.

Time on their side

IMAGINATIVE primary school children have been coming up with ideas for the contents of a time capsule to be buried in the city.

Pupils at the six feeder schools for the new £27m Milton Keynes Academy being built at Leadenhall have been making suggestions as part of a competition.

Ideas include seeds from popular plants, a photo of the Sir Frank Markham Community School that is being replaced, 2008 exam papers, letters and drawings from children, CDs, a Bratz doll and wrestling figures.

"We had some very interesting suggestions including a car and baked beans," said Lorna Caldicott, principal of the new academy.

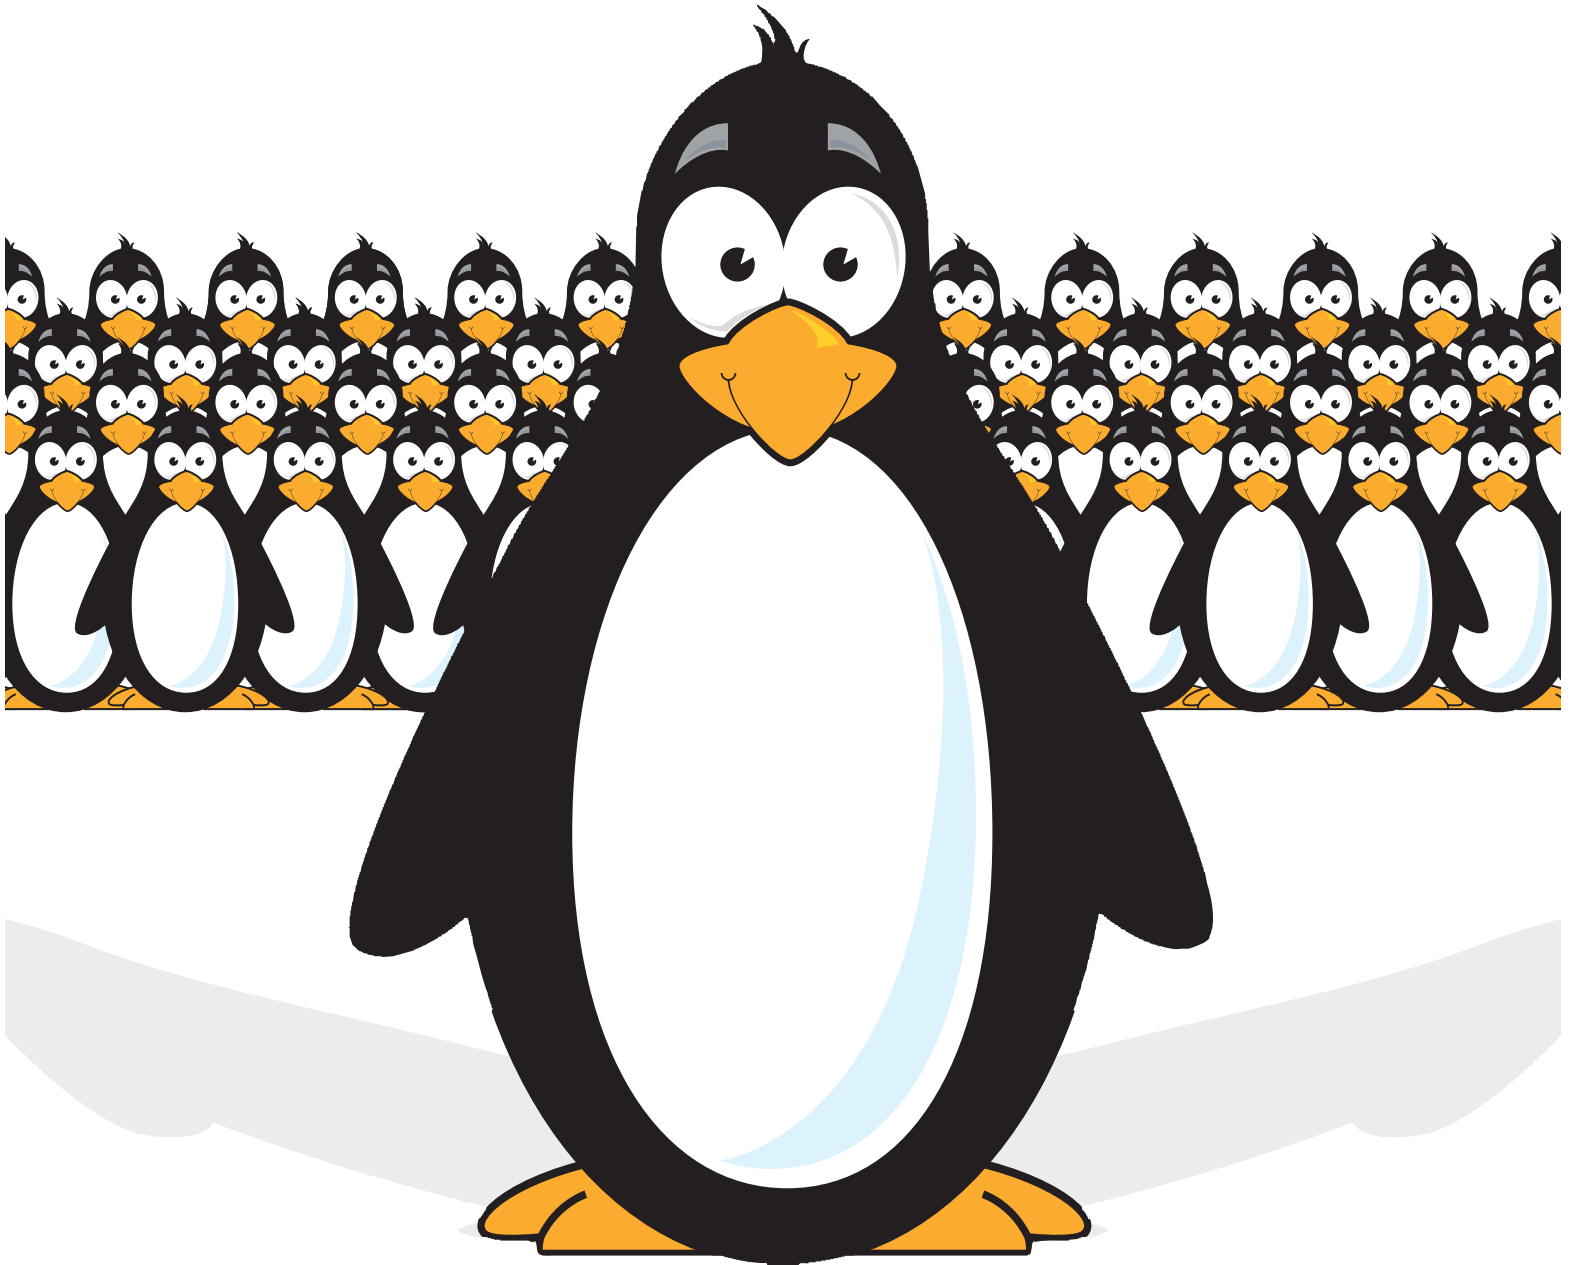

"We thought it would be a great idea to bury items under the foundations of the new school so children years ahead in the future can get an idea of life in Milton Keynes for young people now."

Six children provided the winning entries – Zack Ridley, Andie Walker, Tristan Williams, Bethan Robb, Omar Kiani and Edith Collins.

The capsule is to be buried at a special ceremony, ahead of the Academy's opening in September 2009.

How to celebrate a green wedding

WITH all the expense, energy and materials that go into a wedding, is having an eco-friendly event really possible?

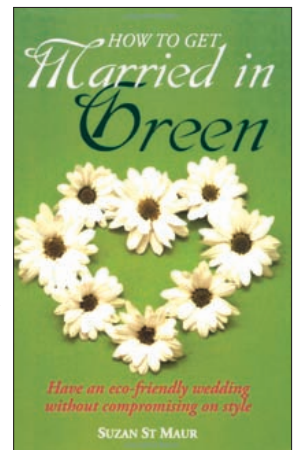

It is, according to a Milton Keynes author, in her latest book, 'How To Get Married In Green: have an eco-friendly wedding without compromising on style'.

Suzan St Maur, 54, who grew up in Woburn Sands and now lives in Aspley Guise, explains in her 17th non-fiction title how to do everything to have a guilt-free wedding – from making eco cocktails to planning a ceremony that does not harm the environment.

She said: "I've been working with How To books on other wedding titles and they suggested this idea. Once I started researching I got more and more involved in being eco friendly and found out how ordinary families can do this. People think being green is expensive but it can actually save them money. It's extremely timely at the moment when you think how the average wedding costs £19,000."

She also gives free eco advice at www.HowToGetMarriedInGreen.blogspot.com

Labour man on Greenpeace ship

ANDREW Pakes, Labour and Co-operative Parliamentary Spokesman for Milton Keynes North, recently joined the crew of the Rainbow Warrior to give his support for a new campaign on green energy.

The Rainbow Warrior II, the flagship of environmental group Greenpeace, was in UK waters at the end of last month to help campaign against a new coal-fired power station in Kingsnorth in Kent and promote renewable energy sources.

Mr Pakes was part of a group of campaigners, policy advisers and MPs who took part in the visit to find out more about Greenpeace and show support for their new campaign on stamping out carbon-emitting energy production.

Following a seminar on the ship with the chief scientific advisor at Greenpeace, Andrew boarded one of the Greenpeace inflatable boats for a ride on the Thames. The green energy campaign is supported by a wide range of organisations, including Oxfam, the Women's Institute, Tearfund, World Wildlife Fund as well as Greenpeace.

Mr Pakes, who is also chairman of SERA, the Labour and trade union environment campaign, said: "I feel really privileged to have been part of this visit and to have heard more about the work being done by Greenpeace. I get a lot of enquiries about the environment so I was pleased to be able to show my support for their clean energy campaign.

"We need to cut our dependency on fossil fuels and do more to help local families improve their energy efficiency and promote renewable energy sources.

"It was also great to get to see the Rainbow Warrior at firsthand and to get to ride on one of the famous Greenpeace inflatable speedboats. It is such an iconic ship and has done a huge amount to help stop illegal whaling and promote wider environmental concerns."

Bad weather forces MK Gallery Big Draw indoors

A HANDS-ON art event by the city's gallery was a hit despite being forced indoors by bad weather.

Milton Keynes Gallery's Big Draw in the Park pulled in nearly 200 people, even though it was relocated just two hours before it was set to start.

The event, on Saturday, October 25, was moved from Campbell Park's Events Plateau into the gallery's project space, the Garden Room at Milton Keynes Theatre and Margaret Powell Square.

Natalie Walton, head of education at the gallery, said: "Luckily we had a brilliant team who swept in and relocated the entire event in less than two hours. Considering the event took over a day and a half to set up, it was pretty amazing. Afterwards the event went smoothly and everyone had a great time."

ADVERTORIAL

Backing a Winning Team

Since opening 3 ½ years ago Milton Keynes Chiropractic Clinic in Fenny Stratford has gone from strength to strength offering a growing number of healthcare services to its diverse range of patients.

Doctor of Chiropractic and Principal Practitioner, Gary Jackson, was pleased to confirm that the objective to offer quality health care at favourable prices at times to suit patients has been a major reason for the clinic's success. "We like to feel that we are the option that a lot of back pain sufferers are looking for. An ever growing number of people now look at health care a different way – If I have a tooth problem I go to the dentist and when I have a back problem I go to my chiropractor. A growing number of people are deciding that just taking pain killers to mask the symptoms is not the answer, preferring to actually try to solve the problem instead."

Research

The Meade Trials in 1990 & 1999 confirms that 'chiropractic treatment was 30% more effective than hospital outpatient management, mainly for patients with chronic or severe low back pain'.

In 2006 the Department of Health Musculoskeletal Services Framework (MSF) recognises that 'Chiropractors provide evidence-based, timely and effective assessment, diagnosis and management of certain musculoskeletal disorders'.

Dr Gary D Jackson BSc, MSc, DC, MCC

Gary is the official Chiropractor for the MK Dons football team. He established the clinic having previously spent many years in practice in the Midlands.

Having treated many professional and amateur sports people and athletes, he utilises several chiropractic techniques in an attempt to enhance sporting performance as opposed to just getting rid of pain. One of Gary's patients recently came 4th in the world representing Great Britain in the over 50's powerlifting tournament in the USA following successful treatment for neck and lumbar disc problems. Gary has also trained in 3 different types of cranial techniques which many patients utilise alongside their chiropractic care from him as a means of countering stress.

Dr Rachel Thorogood BSc, MSc, DC

Rachel graduated from the AECC with a First Class honours degree in chiropractic medicine. She has attended many soft tissue courses and her areas of interest include treating babies and children as well as pregnant women for back pain. Colic, ADHD and a whole host of childhood related conditions have been successfully dealt with by this exemplary practitioner. Rachel spent 7 years in practice in Greater London before joining the team here.

Dr Nageena Akhtar MChiro, DC, MCC, PgC
Registered with the British Medical Acupuncture Society

Nageena is the most recent chiropractor to join the team and we are very pleased to have her here. As well as being a graduate of the world renowned Anglo-European College of Chiropractic she also has attended many post graduate courses to further broaden her range of treatment approaches and techniques. This in turn enables her to offer differing types of treatments for her many patients' varied conditions. Like Rachel, she is passionate about the benefits she can offer the pregnant patient as well as babies and children. She is also trained in medical acupuncture and registered with the British Medical Acupuncture Society. Acupuncture has proven to be extremely effective particularly in treating muscle and stubborn shoulder conditions.

- Back, neck, pelvis & limb pain
- Pins & needles, sciatic symptoms, disc & nerve problems
- Headache, migraine, neck trauma & sports injuries
- Arthritic pain & problems caused by strains of working life postures
- Pregnancy pain, babies & children (colic/ feeding difficulties/ ADHD etc)

Your 1st appointment charge (with the discount voucher) of only £30 also includes your 1st treatment (or x-rays if necessary)

Kids' mural brightens police horse stables

CHILDREN were given the chance to meet city police and their horses on Thursday. Five groups from the area were invited to help paint a mural at the stables of the Thames Valley Police Mounted Section.

The theme was 'police through children's eyes' and offered the chance to meet the horses and look around a police car.

Among the group were children from Stony Stratford Children's Centre; Cold Harbour, Bletchley; The Warren, Lakes Estate; Allsorts, Grange Farm and Netherfield Children's Centre.

PC Hannah Davies said: "Despite the cold weather, the kids were really enthusiastic and seemed to have fun doing the painting."

The wall will now be used to help train nine horses to get used to bright colours and objects.

Children helped decorate the wall at the Police Mounted Section stables – the wall will help trainee horses get used to bright colours and objects

Brasserie Blanc chef Keith Nicholls shows children from Greenleys School the stiffness of his beaten egg whites

The proof of the pudding is in the healthy eating

CHILDREN got their hands mucky at famous chef Raymond Blanc's restaurant yesterday.

Families took part in a healthy dessert demonstration at Brasserie Blanc in the Hub.

The demonstrations were part of a programme aimed at teaching families about eating balanced meals and using seasonal produce, which is packed with more nutrients than those shipped from across the world.

It is run by MK Primary Care Trust (PCT) with Milton Keynes Community of Voluntary Organisations and community members of the Lifestyle Guides Project, which aims to reduce health inequalities in the city.

Angela Rice, health trainer project coordinator at the PCT said: "The Lifestyle Guides programme is an exciting way of teaching whole communities how they can enjoy a healthier lifestyle that's as good for their budget as it is for their bodies.

Healthy eating isn't just about salads and vegetables, it's about achieving a balanced diet and having a little bit of everything; it can even include delicious desserts."

Families will learn how to make starters and main meals in future demonstrations.

Blinds drawn on soft furnishing stores

A SOFT furnishing shop is the latest business to have been hit by hard economic times.

Rosebys, based in Winchester Circle, was closed last week, making four staff redundant, after the nationwide shop announced it was closing 24 more stores on Monday.

A spokesman for administrators KPMG said there were several more staff there before, but in the weeks leading up to the closure they had left and found other posts.

Rosebys, which went into administration last month, had 280 stores country-wide and sales of around £100 million a year, but reportedly lost £6 million in the year to March 31.

Some of the John Lewis display merchandising team Carlie Fry, Helen Roffey and Mike Beardmore

On the outside looking in

YOU know it is Christmas when John Lewis crams its windows with all things festive.

The ambitious displays in the centre mk, which the team started planning back in March, finally came to fruition last week.

Carlie Fry, who leads the window dressing team, believes that getting the look of the displays right is essential.

"It's very important, as soon as people come into the shopping centre this is what they see."

"It's vital that everything is in position as all the top items for this year are in there."

But when the final baubles – or, as this year's is a cosy, Scandinavian theme, balls of wool – are put in place, that is not the end of it for the six-strong team of window dressers, who have three stages of 'redresses'.

The man hours that go into creating the department store's window include two carpenters to build the mammoth displays, which this year include huge wooden reindeer.

"It's one of the biggest runs of windows and they are very deep too," added Ms Fry.

"The most fulfilling part of their job is that the festive fruits of their labour are on display for all to see and because they are behind glass, they cannot be trashed by the hordes of shoppers. I think the team is very proud and very dedicated. It's different from doing the interior, you can't be as creative as the displays constantly need fixing. That's why I love doing this job."

Plasterer on telly talent show rap

A RAPPER is hoping to go one better than city dance group Nemesis by winning Britain's Got Talent.

T J Oates, 20, from Stacey Bushes, is hoping to impress judges on the ITV show with a unique song he has composed, called Has Britain Got Talent!

T J and singing partner Rhea Murray, 17, from Oldbrook, auditioned for the show in London this week and are now preparing to perform at the televised show.

Nemesis were last year's runners up, but this year's hopefuls have only one goal on their minds – the number one spot.

"The song is brilliant, even if I say so myself. I rap and Rhea sings; it's a very catchy number and I can see it reaching the charts. I truly believe we could win the overall show," said T J.

"After our audition a producer came to see us and wanted to know more – whether it had been performed before and who had written it, he was very impressed."

T J is backed by the Routes to Success programme and Wolverton based Kik Music. Funding from Routes to Success has enabled Steve McDaniel at Kik to offer music workshops to teenagers and the duo recorded their track at the Madcap studios.

Plasterer T J added: "We're very grateful for the funding to enable us to record our track professionally. Music has always been a passion of mine and I've been writing lyrics for years. I wrote this song especially for Britain's Got Talent.

TV stardom quest: Rhea Murray, Steve McDaniel, and T J Oates

"It talks about all the great talent that we have in Britain, not just in music with legends such as Queen and the Rolling Stones, but in sport with stars like Lewis Hamilton, Paula Radcliffe and Ricky Hatton.

"Of course, as the show's presenters, Ant and Dec also get a mention. I could have gone on and on, but there wasn't enough room on the track to mention any more greats."

Yvonne Prosser from Routes to Success said: "We are delighted our funding can help young talented artists like T J and Rhea pursue their goal of performing.

"We wish them all the best and everyone here is routing for them to win the whole show. We are certain they can do it."

Ride alongside Santa and help him open his grotto

EVERY year Santa opens his Grotto at thecentre:mk following a magnificent parade through the shopping centre malls.

This year MK NEWS has joined forces with thecentre:mk and Santa to offer two lucky children the opportunity to sit by Santa's side in the procession, open the Grotto with him and take a train ride on 'Santa's Express', which is also sponsored by this newspaper.

For a chance to win this wonderful adventure all you have to do is draw us a picture of you with Santa.

The picture can include anything you want and be set anywhere in the world; you just have to make sure you and Santa are in the middle of it.

Also, send in your Christmas wish list so that Santa knows what you'd like this year.

This Christmas, Middleton Hall at thecentre:mk will be transformed into a magical woodland set featuring fairies, animatronic dragons and wizards and an alley way of magical shops displaying everything for the budding wizard or witch.

The display, which aims to delight young and old alike, will run until January 3. It will feature the return of Santa's Express train ride, the traditional carousel, a nativity scene and the ever popular Santa's Grotto.

Also present in the display will be the Wishing Pool with all proceeds going to charity MK SNAP.

Santa arrives and opens his Grotto at 4.30pm on November 17 and will be in residence until December 24.

Santa's Procession will involve a giant magical train which will carry Santa down to Middleton Hall.

You can wave and cheer as the long winding train with its enchanting illuminated lanterns and sparkling costumes, winds its way, dancing and singing through the shopping centre.

■ The Grotto opening times are 9am-6pm Monday to Saturday in November, 9am-7pm Monday to Saturday in December, 10am-6pm Sundays throughout November and December.

On Christmas Eve Santa's Grotto closes completely at 1pm but the train remains open until 6pm, while everything is closed on Christmas Day.

The Christmas display and train ride open on November 7.

Could this be you?

HOW TO ENTER

Draw a picture of you with Santa. Send it to MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, MK15 0DU by the closing date of Wednesday, November 12. Please include your name, address, age and daytime telephone numbers. The winner must be available all day on Monday, November 17 for the procession. The editor's decision is final.

The Wembley pitch transformed into a race track in 2007

Picture Action Images / Andrew Boyers

Race around Wembley

BY LAURA HANNAM

laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

FANCY driving a kart around the world famous Race of Champions' circuit at Wembley Stadium?

For the second year running, Daytona Milton Keynes is holding a series of unique race events on the hallowed pitch including London's only 24-hour race.

A special circuit is being created in order to run two hour-long, DMAX team endurance events; several arrive and drive specials and a 24 hour endurance event.

All will feature Daytona's super-fast Italian Birel two-stroke karts, which have 50 per cent more horsepower than the previous International circuit karts.

Mike Scudamore, Daytona's general manager, said: "Last year's event, although it was a massive success, was essentially a 'toe in the water'.

"This year we are really going for it 'big time'.

"Daytona is pulling out all the stops to make this an event which will be remembered long after Christmas. We understand that the Race Of Champions is being held elsewhere from next year, so these are once-in-a-lifetime chances."

The Race of Champions is an international event where the world's best circuit racers and off-road drivers compete head-to-head.

For more information on the Daytona event, which will run from December 16 to 21, visit www.daytona.co.uk or contact the circuit on 0845 644 5503.

HOW SOON IS NOW?

The Smiths

WE'VE already had the snow (just in time for Halloween too – in your face, global warming!) and Christmas is coming, so what better way to get into the festive spirit than to re-release a handful of Smiths singles on 7ins?

It's highly likely that there are thousands of better ways, but I'm not here to give you Christmas TV listings or sell you the latest gadgets so, if you don't mind, I'll concentrate on what the record companies are doing to herald the festive season.

Now then, if you know your Smiths chronology you'll be well aware that Hand In Glove and This Charming Man were the first singles the Smiths released, but I'm taking the whole thing as a set and my personal favourites from the early releases are What Difference Does It Make? and How Soon Is Now?

I dunno why, maybe I just like question marks.

Anyway, I've already reviewed What Difference Does It Make? (back in June 2006) so that just leaves the other one.

Here's how good How Soon Is Now? is – t.A.T.u. covered it and it still worked, so if two Russian girls can sing a song designed for Stephen 'Laugh-A-Minute' Morrissey and get away with it, then you know you've got a winner.

However, in the past this song hasn't done as well as it should have, which is strange really.

You'd have thought that if a song was good enough to be used as the theme tune to Charmed for all those years it must've been huge when it came out, but no. It just sort of crept out very slowly.

First it was a B-side for William, It Was Really Nothing, so that was one lot of fans who had the song.

Then it was plonked onto the Hatful Of Hollow album, which went Top 10 and introduced even more people to the track.

Finally, after all that it was given its own release, but even then it got chopped almost in half for the 7ins version and that's how one of the best singles of the 1980s only managed to get to No 24.

Basically, by the time it came out most of the people who would've bought it had already done so, which leads back to what makes this song so good.

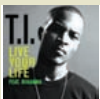

See, the thing is this, it doesn't sound like a typical Smiths song, but it's one of the songs they're known for, just as there are a lot of people who think Song 2 defines Blur.

It's not jingly-jangly like This Charming Man or Ask, in fact Morrissey's role is almost that of a cameo.

This is The Johnny Marr Show, with today's episode called How The Hell Did He Make That Sound With The Guitar? For nearly seven minutes (on the full-length version), he takes the stage and does God only knows what to his instrument, but the result is juddery, melancholy and, let's face it, it doesn't sound like a guitar anymore. This song is a work of genius, end of story.

LIVE YOUR LIFE

T.I. featuring Rihanna

HO hum, another week, another single with Rihanna on it.

This one's better than some, maybe because it has the comedy value of her singing her lines to the tune of O-Zone's pop 'classic' Dragostea Din Tei.

The main attraction, however, is T.I. giving some of his fellow rappers if not an outright slating, at the very least a look of extreme disappointment. You see, there's no point having a gimmick if you don't have the rest of the song sorted out, so even though this could and should've ended badly thanks to the rather odd choice of song that he's incorporated, he's actually turned it around and made it work. How strange.

FILM REVIEW: EAGLE EYE

THINGS really do blow up a lot in things these days.

Eagle Eye a new thriller directed by D J Caruso does more blowing up than an overworked balloon animal entertainer.

Things blow up all over the world in new and different ways as Shia LaBeouf, as a scruffy slacker named Jerry, is thrown together with Michelle Monaghan, an anxious single mum named Rachel.

The plot follows the possibility that Jerry and Rachel, who have been receiving menacing phone calls from a mysterious woman with an accentless, affectless voice, may be being used in a terrorist conspiracy.

Or could it be a government conspiracy?

Or could it be a conspiracy of film makers fooling us into thinking that making this confusing and blowing things up all the time will keep us guessing enough to like this stuff? Who knows?

Meanwhile Billy Bob Thornton and Rosario Dawson, two much better and more interesting actors, flash FBI badges and guns and quarrel about jurisdiction.

At some point later there is a serious plot twist although by the time it came up I wasn't feeling too bothered.

This may be because I personally feel that Mr LaBeouf has not only a very silly name but is also a tedious actor person so had trouble feeling sorry for him and his twisty-turny plot plight.

The basic idea that Rachel and Jerry are at the mercy of a disembodied voice that knows exactly what they're doing and can force them to do things they don't want to is quite fun and if you don't mind switching your brain off then its not a bad movie.

This kind of thing has been done far, far better in the past though.

Try the Manchurian Candidate (the new or old versions) for some classier conspiracy theory nonsense.

GARDEN LIFE

WASN'T last week's snow a shock? Winter is definitely on its way.

This week heralds the start of a new series where we will not only discuss how to grow seasonal fruit and vegetables but what to do with when we harvest them.

To kick off we must start thinking about what to plant for next year. Rhubarb is a great option for the first-time vegetable gardener and the quickest and most reliable way is to grow from crowns.

Choose a spot in fertile, free-draining soil and partial shade.

Make sure that you have dug in plenty of well-rotted manure or compost before you plant, as rhubarb needs nutrients but does not like disturbance once established.

Dig a hole a little bit wider than the crown and deep enough so that the top is just below the soil surface.

Gently firm the surrounding soil and water well. Space the crowns at 75cm (30in) apart for smaller varieties, and up to 120cm (48in) apart for larger varieties.

Good varieties:

■ Ace of hearts – a good choice for a smaller garden

■ Prince Albert – an early variety with good long stalks

■ Timperley Early – lovely flavour, good for forcing

■ Victoria – a classic allotment favourite, good for forcing Mammoth red – grows up to 1.5m (5ft) high.

November is the perfect month to harvest parsnips, squash and beetroot, all of which grow easily in our climate and are wonderful to eat.

We will be talking about how to grow them in a few months time and, although you may not have grown your own this year, I am hoping that by this time next year you will be harvesting and cooking your own produce.

Both parsnips and squash are very versatile and can be cooked in much the same way as potatoes.

They are delicious roasted, mashed, deep-fried to make crisps, and also make an easy tasty soup.

EASY BUTTERNUT SQUASH SOUP

Ingredients

2 tbsl olive oil
1 large butternut squash peeled and chopped with seeds removed
1 onion, roughly chopped
1 litre milk or milk/stock salt and black pepper cream to taste

Method

Sweat the onion over a gentle heat. Add the squash and fry gently for five minutes. Pour the stock into the pan and simmer gently until squash is tender. Remove from the heat and allow to cool slightly, then transfer into a food processor and blend until smooth. Return the soup to the pan and season. (Adjust the thickness of the soup to suit you by adding a little more stock or milk). Serve piping hot with a whorl of cream.

JOBS THIS MONTH

Planting

■ For early crops sow Aquadulce Claudia and Reina Blanca broad beans, and Feltham First peas.
■ Planting onion sets now will give you a crop from late June.
■ Plant green manure crops in empty beds. This will be dug into the soil in spring to improve its structure and increase its organic content.

General jobs

■ Fill gaps in borders with wallflowers for a great blaze of spring colour.
■ Use mini shrubs to plant up tubs and hanging baskets in 'Christmas colours', (red, green and white). Use pernettya, pansies, miracle cyclamen, evergreen ferns, ivies, and hellebores.
■ Give the outside of your greenhouse a good wash.
■ Insulate your greenhouse using bubble wrap.

The Barclays Premier League football trophy will be at the Inside Ex Milton Keynes event at stadium:mk on Friday, November 7.

Former England striker Teddy Sheringham will be posing for photographs beside it with those attending the business conference and exhibition.

The event, organised for the fifth year by Inside Business Ex, aims to boost trade in the area by limiting the effect locally of the global financial turmoil.

Paul Price, of Inside Ex MK, said: "We're creating a winning atmosphere at this year's Inside Ex MK by having the Barclays Premier League trophy and Teddy Sheringham there to liven things up."

"Times are tough right now but I think many people are talking themselves into recession when just being more pro-active and less gloomy could help turn their fortunes around."

"That's why we are declaring this year's Inside Ex Milton Keynes a recession-free zone and urging firms in the region to 'think local'."

Mr Sheringham MBE, 42, who won 51 caps for England, will speak at the event's Charity Lunch, which is being sponsored by Barclays Commercial Bank and will raise money for Milton Keynes Women's Aid.

Terry Dean, the bank's corporate director for Northampton and Milton Keynes, said: "We are delighted to showcase the Premier League Trophy at an event that aims to encourage and promote local trade."

Speaking at the conference's invitation-only Big Breakfast will be Michael O'Sullivan, head of UK research and Global Asset Allocation at Credit Suisse's Private Bank, which is also helping sponsor the event.

Following Mr Sheringham's after-lunch speech, there will be a free marketing seminar by Tony Anderson, a top UK marketing expert who has worked with British Airways, easyJet and EGG.

Duke's visit puts seal of approval on QA company

THE Duke of Kent has visited Olney to congratulate a local company for its contribution to British industry.

The royal visit to the headquarters of Traka plc came five weeks after the business scooped its latest Queen's Award for International Trade to mark the company's impressive overseas achievements.

After accepting the company's second Queen's Award for Enterprise, managing director, John Ken said: "We are delighted and honoured to receive such a visit."

"We are very proud to be contributing to British industry and are delighted that our significant achievement in international trade has been recognised."

The Duke of Kent met company personnel and showed his interest in demonstrations of Traka's range of intelligent access systems, particularly some special products being developed for use throughout the world.

The visit to Traka was part of his tour of north Buckinghamshire and he was accompanied by the mayors of Milton Keynes and Olney.

Fifty per cent of Traka's turnover is attributable to its thriving export business which is based on sales to more than 26 countries around the world.

Visitors to the MK Jobs Fair held at the Hilton Hotel

New jobs fair a success

MORE than 500 people flocked to the Hilton hotel to find out about the city's latest job opportunities.

The new MK Jobs Fair has been hailed a great success and will return again next year.

The event, held at the Hilton Hotel in Kents Hill Park last Wednesday, October 29 was organised by MK NEWS and sponsored by Milton Keynes Council.

Visitors could explore 15 stands to find out about recruitment, training and education in Milton Keynes and the latest career and job opportunities for all.

Exhibitors included Milton Keynes Council, Royal Airforce, Milton Keynes College, Walton High, Army Careers, Kaplan Training, Allstaff

Recruitment, Learn Direct and D & P Recruitment.

Plus Buckingham University, Oriflame Cosmetics, Warden Hill Motoring, thecentre:mk and Hilton Hotel and Toys R Us all had stands.

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Council said they were pleased with the steady flow of people the event had throughout the day.

Never too old?

EXTENDING the age of retirement is a welcome shift during the economic downturn.

That is the view of some people before the Heyday report, which is being challenged in the European Courts of Justice, will provide a verdict on whether the current UK retirement age of 65 is still relevant.

Supporters of the report believe that times are changing and the default retirement age has a negative impact on business, skills and diversity. They feel older workers' experience is essential in times of economic uncertainty and belt-tightening.

According to employment services company, Manpower, working into the retirement period will also benefit those over 65 as many struggle to keep up with the rising cost of living and inflation levels and maintaining an income will help supplement a pension.

Employers often make the mistake of assuming that all employees want to retire as soon as possible. In fact, most employees believe that pensions alone are inadequate and are consequently working longer to fund retirement.

A recent CBI survey showed that almost a third of all employees nearing retirement requested to work beyond their intended retirement date and employers granted 81 per cent of those requests.

TOP TIPS

To employers:

■ Listen – Take advantage of the information and advice from the older workers in the business and take on board their experiences to plan for the future.

■ Company retirement strategies – It is important for every company to have its own 'transition plans' in place to ease the change process.

■ Encourage older employees – By investing time and money in training older employees, productivity will increase and their confidence will grow.

This will encourage them to continue working and provide valuable contributions to the business.

To employees:

■ Use your experience – Make sure you voice your ideas and opinions to express your views on how best the company can survive for the current downturn.

■ Stay transparent – Ensure that you inform your employer of your retirement intentions and be open to ideas about flexible working opportunities.

■ Keep training – Encourage your employer to keep your training up to date so that you do not fall behind and you have the same skills as new employees.

Perry's in Milton Keynes is giving its customers the green light to make some impressive savings on selected brand new Peugeot models.

From now until 30th November, customers can 'Go Ahead' and benefit from great savings on selected Peugeot models.

Perry's is also giving customers the chance to win a luxury family holiday worth £2,500 if they take a test drive in any brand new Peugeot during this time.

Savings available include £1,000 off the ultra economical 107 Urban Lite, OVER £2,000 off the dynamic 207 and up to £3,325 off the very stylish 308. Customers can also benefit from one year's free road tax, roadside assistance and a tank of fuel.

Showcasing Peugeot's reputation for style and value, the 107 Urban Lite has excellent fuel efficiency, achieving 61 mpg on a combined cycle and falls into the vehicle excise duty band - which requires road tax of just £35.

With a high-quality and spacious interior, the 207 provides an exceptional combination of ride and handling, and features air conditioning, six air bags, front fog lights and electric front windows.

Proving to be a hit with Perry's customers since it was launched last year, the 308 has brilliant road presence, excellent drivability, a comfortable interior and features cruise control, full body-coloured exterior and a radio and CD player with MP3 playback.*

Mike Beevis, Dealer Principal at Perry's Milton Keynes comments: "With a month to benefit from this great offer on a brand new Peugeot and a fantastic family holiday up for grabs, now is the ideal time to visit Perry's on Bilton Road and take a test drive in one of these superb vehicles, whether you are looking for your first car or something suitable for the family."

'Go Ahead' and save at Perrys this month.

For further information or to book a test drive, contact Perry's Milton Keynes on 01908 360 460 or visit the dealership on Bilton Road, Bletchley, Milton Keynes. Alternatively, log on to www.perrys.co.uk/mk

Gallen 81

TRANMERE ROVERS 0

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

WINNING goal scorer Kevin Gallen doesn't mind coming off the bench to play as long as he stays with MK Dons.

The veteran striker was a super sub when he netted the only goal against Tranmere with his first touch.

Although Gallen, 34, has made seven appearances this season just two have come as starts but he insists he wouldn't want to be anywhere else other than stadiummk.

"I want to play football, I haven't been getting games so it's been very frustrating for me, I just want to get on the pitch and play," Gallen added, "hopefully that might be the little boost that I need."

"I just want to play and I'd rather be playing here than anywhere else because I like it here."

"It's a good place to play football so hopefully I can get some more games and I'll stay in the team."

His one hit wonder came nine minutes before the break when Tranmere failed to mark him on his introduction which allowed the former QPR striker to get his foot onto Jason Puncheon's corner.

A week earlier the Dons won a classic at stadiummk but this was a game to forget as dreadful weather conditions and tired legs played their part in a drab affair.

Though Roberto Di Matteo pointed to Tranmere's negative tactics for a match lacking in spectacular football.

Tranmere played a defensive 4-5-1 formation which starved lone striker Bas Savage of options and it starved the Dons' attacking players of chances too.

Di Matteo said: "It was a very tough game, as we expected, we knew Tranmere would come here and basically defend and try to hit us on the break or score with set-pieces."

"We worked very hard for it. Luckily we got three points. I have to say at the end I was going to be happy with a draw because it was just difficult to break them down when they have so many bodies.

"You pass one, you pass two then there's another five it's difficult for any team."

The best opportunities to break the deadlock fell to Tranmere, in fact it was the Cowshed's old favourite Gareth Edds that was guilty of missing a sitter in the first-half.

The ex-Don somehow blasted over the bar from inside the six-yard box, then Ian Moore saw his effort deflect wide.

Chances were few and far between but Gallen did his prospects for a starting role no harm though Di Matteo was quick to praise the efforts of his entire squad.

"Credit to Kevin, he came from the bench and was ready, he scored. That shows the character of the players and the team."

"I know it's disappointing when you don't play and you're not involved as a player, I've been there myself but in the long run you need to have a big squad."

Frustratingly the Dons then followed up the goal with two fantastic shots, Luke Chadwick's first palmed away by Tranmere 'keeper Danny Coyne and Sam Baldock rattled the bar, yet Dons couldn't steal a second.

The game may not have looked good but the table, with the Dons now two points off the top, certainly does.

BRADFORD CITY

F A Cup

Saturday, November 8
stadiummk 30 3pm

LEAGUE action takes a break this weekend as teams turn their attentions to the first round proper of the FA Cup.

Dons kick off their cup campaign against a side they beat twice in League Two last year and it was on Bradford's turf that they secured the title.

Bradford are pushing for promotion but Stuart McCall's men have found playing away from home their Achilles heel in the league.

Three of the Bantams' four defeats have come on the road while the Dons are on the back of three straight wins.

Former Stoke and Cardiff strike Peter Thorne has been scoring goals for fun in Bradford's colours with eleven already to his name. But the form book goes out of the window in cup games.

Both Jason Puncheon and Luke Chadwick's loan conditions prevent them from playing though Lewis Price is likely to keep his spot in goal as Willy Gueret serves the final of his three match ban.

Shaun Cummings will be available for the Dons on return from his suspension.

www.mkdons.com - terms and conditions do apply for the offer and can be found on the Dons' official website.

MK Dons Under 18s have reached the second round of the FA Youth Cup and have been drawn against Leicester City.

The Dons came from 2-0 down against Coventry Spinx to win the game 3-2.

Goals came from Justin Dowling and Daniel Powell while it was left to a stunning strike by sub Michael O'Hanlon to seal the second round spot.

The game will take place before November 22.

Pease departure puts a dampener on twin wins

ICE HOCKEY

WIGHTLINK RAIDERS 1
MK LIGHTNING 4

MK LIGHTNING 4
SWINDON WILDCATS 2

TWIN wins have moved MK Lightning up the league but the team are reeling from the news that James Pease has left the club.

The Great Britain international has joined Elite League leaders, and his former club, Coventry Blaze as their new general manager.

Pease signed for Lightning in the summer for his second spell in Milton Keynes and was described by coach Nick Poole as a 'massive' player.

His departure will not only hurt the side on the ice it will also take a knock off of effect on the coaching.

Twenty-seven-year-old Pease had taken on extra coaching duties and held coaching sessions to allow Poole to concentrate on his game.

A Lightning statement said: "James will be making the switch from the ice to the front office over the next few weeks and will be calling it a day on what has been a very successful career."

"We would like to express our thanks for the time and effort James has put in with MKL both over these first few weeks and also for the year he gave us in our second season. He will be missed both on and off the ice and I am sure we will see James from time to time in MK."

He did ice one last time in Lightning's 2-4 win over Swindon Wildcats where he set up the third goal.

Michael Wales and Ales Perez put Lightning 2-1 up on the half-hour mark when Andre Smulter collected from Pease for the third.

When Poole grabbed the fourth early in the final period it appeared to be game over but Jamie Hayes stole one back five minutes from the end.

On Sunday Muzzy Wales was the star of the show with two goals and the man of the match award.

Chris McEwen open the scoring on ten minutes yet Wightlink took eight minutes to level the score.

However, from then on it was all Lightning as Wales sandwiched scores between Gary Clarke's 32nd minute strike for the second win of the weekend.

A maximum of four points pushes the side up to sixth place in the English Premier League.

■ LIGHTNING host Sheffield Scimitars on Saturday, face-off is at 7pm, then they travel to second placed Peterborough Phantoms on Sunday. Face-off is at 5.30pm.

Basic errors see Bletchley sink to fifth

SOUTH WEST TWO EAST DIVISION

A THIRD defeat for Bletchley saw them fall to fifth in the league.

At their Manor Fields home Bletchley were made to pay for basic errors as Salsbury kicked seven penalties.

An early penalty falling to Phil Harman handed Bletchley the first points of the afternoon as they went three nil up, but Salsbury surged backed to force their own penalty and were soon back on level terms.

Harman responded with two penalties yet his attempts to extend the lead fell short when three kicks went off target.

The wheels then began to fall off when a Bletchley player was sin-binned and Salsbury pulled back three points to trail 9-6 at half-time.

From there Salsbury were the side that looked on course for victory. They levelled the score with a third penalty, then sustained pressure in Bletchley's half resulted in an unconverted try.

As injuries played their part in Bletchley's demise Salsbury stuck a further four penalties to win the game 9-26.

OLNEY'S winless run stretched to three games following a 26-3 defeat at Swanage and Wareham.

Dreadful weather conditions did not allow the best style of rugby nevertheless Swanage worked it to their advantage with a dominate display.

Though Olney handed Swanage four penalties early on, the home side only converted three, and Richard James was able to pin the score back to 9-3.

Both sides went down to 14 men in the second-half, Olney's number eight was punished for straying off-side while Swanage's second row killed the ball.

In the final ten minutes Swanage crossed the line twice, scoring the only tries of the match, and the fly-half convert to seal a comfortable win.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES
NORTH DIVISION

ANOTHER win keeps Milton Keynes tied at the top with Buckingham and Marlow.

MK powered to a fine 26-7 reverse win at Swindon.

A tight first half saw little points on the board with MK taking a five nil lead in at the break.

Adam Duckers (2), Daniel Pearson and Phil Powell all went over to put MK out of sight while Andy White kicked six points.

Swindon's consolation try did little to deflate MK's spirits as they kept up

TITLE defenders MK Lions crashed out of the BBL Cup in a home defeat to Everton Tigers.

Lions excelled in the competition last season winning their first ever silverware in a thrilling final with Newcastle Eagles.

But that trophy stayed in their possession for just ten months as Everton stormed to victory in the final quarter.

The Lions, without their talismanic guard Terrell Brown who was injured in the defeat to Plymouth Raiders midweek, grabbed an early 7-6 lead thanks to Robert Youngblood's five points.

But Everton had Great Britain international Richard Midgley in their side and a pair of threes from him helped them to a 13-2 tear which handed them a ten point lead four minutes before the break.

Dru Spinks, Yorick Williams and Carl McNally rallied late on to pull the deficit back to 20-24.

In the second quarter Lions regained the advantage through a Simon Emmerson lay up but Midgley was once again the thorn in their side as he paired up with Josh Gross for seven points to put the Tigers 40-45 in front. At that stage coach Vince Macaulay decided to hand 16-year-old Connor Washington his debut as the Lions tried to fill the hole left by Brown.

Tigers' Gross sandwiched a basket between a Mike New score and points from Dru Spinks which inspired a 10-2 run.

Soon the Lions had their biggest lead of the game, 61-57, yet it did not last as four free throws saw the Tigers ahead by one point at the end of the third.

And the Lions were unable to mount a comeback as they ran out of steam with McNally hitting their only points in five minutes as Everton hit a 9-2 burst.

Tommie Eddie's free throws and a pair from McNally were not enough to help the Lions over turn Tigers' 75-97 winning scoreline.

Macaulay conceded Everton were just too good on the day, he said: "The fans did us proud, they supported us all the way through. Dru (Spinks) was terrific in fact all the guys played hard, we just lost our way for five minutes in the fourth and that was enough."

"We were up against a very good team."

■ MK Lions travel to London Capital on Saturday, tip-off is at 7.30pm, then they host Plymouth Raiders on Sunday at 4pm.

Coulthard crashes out of career at first corner

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

DAVID Coulthard's career ended on one corner while Lewis Hamilton was propelled to World Champion on another.

Formula One fans were left with their hearts in their mouths as the title appeared to be slipping away from Hamilton.

But the enthralling Brazilian Grand Prix also began in dramatic fashion when Coulthard brought the curtain down on his 15-year career by crashing out.

It has been the story of his final season with Red Bull Racing, it started with a spectacular crash in Australia and continued in poor fashion, though a podium at Canada added gloss to an otherwise disappointing year.

Coulthard had been hoping to sign off with doughnuts to entertain the crowd instead he was left to climb out of the wreckage caused by his clash with Nico Rosberg and Kazuki Nakajima.

"I'm gutted, it's not how I wanted to end my career," the Scotsman said.

"I felt good on the warm up laps going to the grid, I had no problem with it being wet and I wanted to get to the chequered flag. I was going to do some doughnuts for the crowd, which is something you normally get fined for, but it didn't work out.

"Thank you to the efforts of every member of the Red Bull Racing team for the last four years, which have been a lot of fun, I look forward to continuing to work with them in the future.

"I've been overwhelmed by the level of support I've had from the paddock this weekend, it means a great deal to me that so many people have taken the time to say 'nice career and good luck with the future'. And, in the absence of a World Championship, I think if I can leave with that, then that's a good ending."

Not-so-fond farewell: David Coulthard waves to the crowd, above, after he ended his F1 career at the first corner in Brazil at the weekend, right

It was typical that just as 37-year-old Coulthard finished as the top British scorer in the points with 535, that an English whipper snapper would steal all the headlines.

Hamilton passing Timo Glock, who was on dry tyres despite the rain, shattered Felipe Massa's title hopes but delighted millions of Brits.

Coverage of the Grand Prix would have had you believe only six cars finished due to the attention the title battle received but Red Bull's Mark Webber came within a whisker of points with a ninth place finish.

Dons boss definitely up for the FA Cup

BY SIMONE CORGAN

simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

ROBERTO Di Matteo will reignite his love affair with the FA Cup this weekend but for the first time in his career he will have to work his magic from the dugout.

The MK Dons supremo had a terrific record in the cup having reached the final three times, emerging victorious twice, during his six years with Chelsea.

Di Matteo scored the fastest ever goal in a Wembley Cup final in 1997, and scored the winner over Aston Villa in 2000 as well.

On Saturday Di Matteo will watch his Dons host Bradford City in the first round proper of the world famous cup.

He said: "It's a great competition because it moves the whole country, non-league, conference, everyone is involved.

"It's a special competition for me, it's nice because I've got some fond memories but I think all the players value this cup.

"It's the most famous cup, it has history and you see people going crazy on the day."

Dons head into the game as favourite but Di Matteo has warned Stuart McCall's Bradford will be a difficult side to beat.

"Bradford have been in the Premiership, they are third in League Two so I think it's going to be a good game."

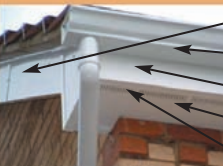

Dons will be without Luke Chadwick and Jason Puncheon, while Flavien Belson and Peter Leven sat out of training yesterday though both are expected to be fit for the FA Cup clash.
